Big Band Era

Music has long been a staple of Walkkill Valley life

BY CARL AIELLO

Long before Netflix, Amazon Prime Videos or, for that matter, talking pictures, we had music to entertain us.

The roar of trumpets, the pounding of drums, the clash of cymbals filled the air. People would gather at the local bandstand for an enjoyable evening or line Main Street, hand on heart, when the color guard passed by, keeping time to the music of the marching band. The musicians, resplendent in ornate jackets and colorful capes, offered a feast for the eyes as well as the ears.

The Valley's earliest bands had a connection to the woolen mills that harnessed their power from the Walkkill River.

The Arkwright Band, formed in 1860, consisted of employees of the earliest of Montgomery's Mills. Another band was the Killworth Mills Band, which was established in 1880 and featured the Crabtree Brothers and mill workers from Crabtree's Mill. Other early bands were the Montgomery Cornet Band (1908), comprised of members of the Montgomery Fire Department and the Montgomery Band and Drum Corps (1912) which performed at large firemen's parades throughout Orange County.

The Walden Fife and Drum Corps was organized Nov. 10, 1888. They began rehearsals in the old factory on Elm Street. Their first public appearance was Decoration Day 1889.

Each band member purchased his own uniform and paid dues to the corps as well. A glockenspiel, purchased in 1903, was a unique feature of the corps. Two herald trumpets were also purchased that year. The trumpets proved to be an asset, so two more were added in 1906.

Competition for the corps was intense, since the line of march consisted only of 21 men.

The corps flourished throughout the years and was popular from Washington DC to Canada. Because of a shortage of players, the corps was disbanded with the onset of the Korean War.

Other bands of the era included the Walden Cornet Band, the W. J. Randles Ladies Marching Band and the Arthur Daniel Walden Band.

The Ladies Band made its debut on Decoration Day 1911.

The band, noted the Walden Herald, was organized purely as an organization of pleasure, not profit, and at first, no thought as to engagements was given, but as time progressed and members were added, the inquiries came in to know if we would not accept work. It was decided to take up practicing in earnest and try and earn a little and pay some expenses that had fallen upon each member. The band, it was noted, was under no obligation to anyone, but the expense in furnishing instruments and uniforms has been a heavy one and on some of the members has come very hard, but there has never been a complaint and all without a dissenting voice voted to get uniforms before they made their first appearance.

"There are some, no doubt, who will jeer and poke fun at the band, especially at the many mistakes they are bound to make, as it must be borne in mind that with one or two exceptions, none of the members ever had tried to play the instrument they are now playing until within the last year and several within the last three months, therefore they cannot help but feel awkward on march and also feel nervous, which will causing them to make many discords, which they would not make at any other time.”

“While the members would much rather make their first appearance among strangers, yet they feel that Walden is their home and that here belongs first honors, if it can be termed such.

The band would also perform on August 9, 1911 at the Old Home Week and Outing Days of the Wallkill Valley Farmer’s Association at Gillspie’s Grove and the Walden Driving Park, site of present day Alfred Place, Sunset Drive and Donner Drive. Among the performers was Margaret Clinton Alsdorf, who married Henry J. Alsdorf, Hazel Clineman Carr, Edith Miles, Jess Archer, Hattie Christian on clarinet, Lena Palen and Anna O’Brien on trombone, Margaret Randles, Susie Archer and Hattie Christian on Clarinet, Mildred Sutcliffe on cornet, Mrs. Harry Norton on sax, Hazel Clerk on alto horn, Nina Jones on baritone horn, Margaret O’Brien and Mrs. W.J. Randles on tuba, and Elizabeth Archer and Beatrice Randles on percussion.

The Walden Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps was organized by John Albert Andrew Sohns during the early days of the 20th century. Sohns Music Shop, on Main Street in Walden, sold musical instruments and sheet music, as well as phonographs.

William and Alice Green Hall

William O. Hall came to Montgomery to install electricity in village homes. His work would produce joyful sound, as well as light.

Hall and his “sweet sedate wife” Alice Green Hall were both musically talented, according to Montgomery Museum archives. He arrived in the village in 1911, initially to assist George Ayers of Prospect Terrace to install electricity into village homes and businesses at a time when only four cars were driven along the quiet streets.

They purchased the site of James Ward’s Grist Mill, remodeling it to become Riverside Garage, making their home upstairs. Within two years, the Ford Motor Company honored him for selling the largest number of Ford automobiles in New York State.

Neither had lost their love and talent for music. She was a gifted pianist. He would be summoned to join the Community Orchestra, led by Dr Kyte, the village physician and violinist.

As a youth, he had learned to play the clarinet from his father, later studying under Professor Charles Moscow, West Point’s music director and had learned to play and excel in violin, cornet, piano and bass viol. He was honored to play at Newburgh's Academy of Music and at the Bijou Theatre in Brooklyn before his marriage.

"Mrs. Hall was a devoted partner, whether pumping Tydol gas, a difficult task before electric pumps, or doing complicated bookkeeping of their busy Ford dealership, which also provided free lessons," notes the museum records, "Hall's Taxi Service brought vacationers from Erie Railroad' Union Station depot to their destinations."

In 1932, Hall established the George Washington Band to commemorate the 200th birthday of the Founding Father. Hall led the band until 1948 and left behind a treasure trove of sheet music. The Montgomery Museum archives include folders for each musical work performed by the band, with separate sheets for each instrument.

The stage for concerts in the village was the bandstand, which was the place to be on Tuesday nights during the summer. The George Washington Band, and members who included Tom Harris, Glenn Ericksen and Mel Bettcher, played marches and many old tunes for the enjoyment of village residents, young and old alike. The ladies from the local churches showed off their skills selling homemade cakes and deserts to the audience. The music would start at or about 6:30 p.m. and continue until 10 p.m.

The original bandstand, built by Chauncey Brooks, was located on the grounds of the First Presbyterian Church. It was subsequently relocated further down Clinton Street. In 1957, it was moved from Clinton Street to Veteran's Memorial Park. It was destroyed in a storm in 1959.

In 1960, the village erected a new bandstand in the park. It is still in use today for a number of musical events.

A fundraising campaign began in 2010 to erect a new bandstand on Clinton Street. It was dedicated on July 24, 2014, ushering in a new Thursday-night concert series.

The Walden Drum and Bugle Corps

A more modern-day version of the Walden Drum and Bugle Corps was started in the winter of 1969, holding rehearsals in the old Wallkill Valley Railroad station that had been re-located to Wooster's Grove. After two years, recalls Larry Eckert, it merged with another band called the Newburgh Envoys, and became the Newburgh Walden Envoys.

"The Envoys were a competition drum corps that marched on the football field. There were many kids at that time who

TOWN OF CRAWFORD

History: Crawford was first settled by the Thomas Bull family who, appropriately enough, founded the hamlet of Bullville circa 1760. The hamlet of Pine Bush first came into being circa 1765 when Robert Milliken settled there. The Searsville area was first settled by Johannes Snider circa 1768.

But Crawford was not to become an official township until Mar. 4, 1823, when it was formed from the Town of Montgomery. There has been a recent resurgence in the hamlet with work proceeding to upgrade and restore the Main Street area.

Most of the growth in the outlying areas has been residential, with horse farms a growing land use in recent years.

TOWN OF GARDINER

History: The first settlers were descendants of the New Paltz Patentees and Dutch from the towns of Shawangunk and Rochester. In the later half of the 19th century, Irish families came to settle in Gardiner.

The town was formed April 2, 1854 from the nearby townships of Shawangunk, Rochester and New Paltz. It was named for Addison Gardiner, a Rochester resident who was elected Lieutenant Governor in 1844.

Ireland Corners was settled in 1763 by Daniel Deyo. Two Irishmen, John and Charles Geirigan, settled there in the 1830s and built a small corner store. The Ireland Corners Hotel was built in the late 1800s.

The town's earliest business was the Tuthilltown Grist Mill, which was built in 1788 by Sela Tuthill a. In addition to the grist mill, the Wallkill River also provided water power for wood and woolen mills.

The first apple orchards began in operation around 1810. Today, the orchards remain a vital part of the Gardiner community.

TOWN OF MONTGOMERY

History: During its earliest settling in the 17th century, it was known as the Precinct of Shawangunk and was originally part of Ulster County. In 1743 it became known as the Precinct of Wallkill and in 1772 the Precinct of Hanover. It received its current name in 1788 in honor of the well-known patriot and soldier, General Richard Montgomery. Montgomery was a Brigadier General in the revolutionary army and died at the storming of Quebec in 1775.

The Town of Montgomery includes 3 waterways, the Tinbrook, Muddykill, and the Wallkill River. The later is celebrated as one of the few rivers to flow north in the Eastern United States. These waterways were ideal sites for Native American settlements, and remnants of their inhabitation are still found today.

In the early 18th century, Cadwallader Colden settled in the area. Colden was named the first surveyor general in 1720, and soon after was named to Governor Burnett's provincial council. In 1761 he became lieutenant governor of New York. He was one of the most learned men of the colonies and was a frequent correspondent of Benjamin Franklin. Colden, also a physician, contributed substantially to a variety of intellectual and scientific fields. He studied botany, physics and philosophy and was published several times on his findings. The area he settled in was called Coldenham, which is the present Coldenham, located off of 17K.

VILLAGE OF MAYBROOK

History: The Village of Maybrook was incorporated in 1925. A village, literally built by the railroad, the roots of Maybrook actually date back to 1735, when land was deeded for a highway to be extended from the Town of Shawangunk to Goshen, passing in front of the Goodwill Church.

For many years, the road which is now Route 208 was called the Walden Road, but in 1950, the portion passing through the village was renamed Homestead Avenue in honor of the early owners of homesteads along this road.

In the early 1880s, this valley was first considered ideal for a railroad line and, in 1883, the first surveys were made for a rail line through the Wallkill Valley, from Hamptonburgh to Montgomery, to connect existing Erie and Lehigh and Hudson Lines. In 1887, plans were unveiled for the construction of the Poughkeepsie Railroad Bridge, enabling goods from all western portions of the country to be delivered to New England and, in return, expedite the flow of industrial products from the New England states to the western portion of the country.

The steel rails were laid in April of 1889 through the settlement of Orange Junction. The name was later changed to Maybrook Junction and, eventually, to Maybrook.

In 1908, the Orange County Railroad began to enlarge the existing railroad yards, buying farmland on the east side of the tracks. The enlargement made Maybrook one of the largest freight terminals in the east.

In 1968, the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad was consolidated with the Penn Central, signaling the beginning of the end of Maybrook as an active railroad town. Lines were diverted and the business began to decline, grinding to a full stop in 1973, when a fire destroyed the Poughkeepsie Railroad Bridge.

VILLAGE OF MONTGOMERY

History: When James Ward bought a mill on the east side of the Wallkill River in 1740, he built the first bridge across the river and opened up the land for development that would one day become the Village of Montgomery.

The village's history is closely tied in with that of the town when the families of Jacob Bookstaver, Frederick Sinsabaugh and Johannes Youngblood bought an 800-acre tract here in 1735. Before even that date, however, they had journeyed to this area to help found the Brick Reformed Church.

What is now the village was called Ward's Bridge. It was included with the Precinct of Shawangunk in Ulster County until 1743 when it became the Precinct of Wallkill. In 1772, the precinct was divided and that portion containing the village became the Precinct of Hanover.

After the Revolutionary War, Hanover became the Township of Montgomery, named in honor of the general who fell at the Battle of Quebec.

But it wasn't until Feb. 17, 1810 that Ward's Bridge was formally incorporated as the Village of Montgomery. There followed the boom years of the village, with the famous Montgomery Academy growing and many general stores, drug stores, tobacco shops, blacksmiths, carriage shops, newspaper offices and law offices springing up all over. The financial depression that socked the nation in 1830 hit Montgomery as well, and it didn't really recover until ground was broken for the Montgomery Branch Railroad in 1866. Other rail lines followed, and the village boomed again.

VILLAGE OF WALDEN

History: The first settlements of the lands surrounding the high falls of the Wallkill occurred in the middle of the 18th century, decades before a wealthy merchant named Jacob Walden found it to his liking.

In the mid-1700s, the land was part of the Wallkill Precinct and was the home of a grist mill believed to have been built by James Kidd and his family in a place they called Kiddtown.

In 1812, a New York City businessman, who had made his fortune as a mercantile trader, visited the area. Jacob Walden and his wife were so impressed, they decided to settle here and bought many of the farmlands along the river, including the old grist mill. The family resided in a stone house at what is now the corner of Wait and North Montgomery Streets and the property of the Historical Society of Walden and the Wallkill Valley. The stone house remained in the Walden family until 1856, when it was sold to Edward Wait.

Walden set out to encourage manufacturers to locate in the area. The Franklin Company, founded in 1822 by Jesse Scofield and Dr. S.C. Capron, was erected at the site of the original grist mill. The company manufactured cotton and woolen goods and by 1934 had become the largest manufacturer of flannel in the U.S.

In 1831, E.W. Bridges was commissioned by Walden to plot and map all of his lands and the adjoining area. It was the first map of what was to become, in 1855, the Village of Walden.

Through the years, Walden gained a reputation for its knife manufacturing industries, with the Alden and the New York Knife Works becoming the major industries of the area around the turn-of-the-century. After the first World War, the knife industry declined and disappeared from the village altogether when Schrade Cutlery moved to Ellenville.

GOVERNMENT

TOWN OF SHAWANGUNK

History: According to local historian Marc B. Fried, the first settler in what was to become Shawangunk was Gertrude Brown, whose deed from the Esopus Indians for the "land named Sawankonck" is dated January 24, 1682. From an ancient map, a copy of which is displayed in Shawangunk Town Hall, it is apparent that Gertrude (a widow) and her three young children actually settled on their land within the next five years. A tract of more than 1,200 acres, lying south of the Bruyn Parcel was obtained by members of the van Camp, Decker, Terwilliger and Shut families, whose October 1694 patent indicates that by that date, the proprietors had already "made considerable improvements by settling, cultivating and manuring the same and whereof they are now Actually Possesst." The Bruyn and van Camp/Decker tracts were along the Shawangunk Kill. Shawangunk officially becoming a township on March 7, 1788.

With an area of about 57 square miles and a population of about 12,022, Shawangunk has seen the hamlet of Wallkill become the business center of the town. Just outside of the hamlet, the Wallkill and Shawangunk Correctional Facilities are big employers there.

Big Band Era

were looking to explore the marching under the lights instead of marching on the streets doing parades,” Eckert recalled. I stayed until summer of 1973 when I decided that I was just too old to march with the corps and decided to join the Florida Legion Band, of Florida NY.”

Eckert was later asked to take over the Ambassadors of New York, based in Ellenville. He moved them to Montgomery and practiced in the fire house. The corps made up of percussion, bells and an honor guard moved back to Walden, but was unable to find a sponsor. It folded in the winter of 2004.

Present Day Bands

Walker Valley Band

In 1982 George Kremer, a resident of Walker Valley and a member of the Walker Valley Fire Department had an idea to start a marching band.

Its very meager beginning was with borrowed drums played by George and fire department members, Ed Moran, Eddie Edwards, Philip Edwards and Rich King. Their first parade was at a Walden firemen’s parade.

As the parade season wore on it was realized that they needed to grow and due to the busy lives of adults some of the firemen’s children, and others from the community began to join.

Susan Sohni, George’s partner, began helping with the more youthful version of the band. Together they raised funds to purchase fifes, drums and uniforms. The first Glockenspiel (bells) was purchased and Susan tapped out the first song later to be known as #1 The Marines Hymn. Bob Hill, Pine Bush Schools Director of Music helped the band by writing and sometimes teaching the music and before long the band had 13 traditional marching songs.

In 1985 Mary Webb had joined the band as a member of the Color Guard. Previously she had helped the band fundraising and belonged to the Walker Valley Ladies Auxiliary. No member has ever paid anything to be a part of this band and it remains the same to this day.

In 1988 as George and Susan prepared for retirement, they set up a scholarship fund for every child in band at the time to be given at each of their graduations.

The practices and parades were then led by members Mary Webb and Ralph Schubert Jr. throughout that summer. Mary Webb decided to try to preserve the bands future and consulted with a longtime friend and attorney Samuel Eager Jr. of Goshen. His generous donation of time helped form a not-for-profit-corporation. Ralph Shubert Jr. was not 21 years of age at the time so his father Ralph Schubert Sr. signed the corporation into being with Mary Webb and on August 28, 1989 the Walker Valley Marching Band, Inc. was born. Its first Board of Directors was set up with Frank Wood as President, Vice President - Victor Baumann, Treasurer- Fran McClintock Secretary- Gladys Smith and Music Director/ Manager- Mary Webb.

In 2022 the band will celebrate its 40th Anniversary. Contact General Manager Tammy Stevens, 845-800-3628 or tammystevens69@yahoo.com for information on membership in the Walker Valley Band.

Maybrook Troop 236 Scout Band

The Troop 236 Scout Band was formed in 1986 in the Village of Maybrook. It consists of drummers and glockenspiel musicians.

Since its beginning, the band has marched in numerous fireman’s parades throughout the state. It has performed at Disney World in Orlando, Fla, 12 times in various venues. It has performed at Gettysburg PA. at the Korean and Vietnam Memorials in Washington DC, at Busch Gardens and Kings Dominion Virginia,

“We have marched many times in New York City parades including the St. Patrick’s Day parade,” notes founder and former Scoutmaster Jim Barnett. “Our band has earned over 150 marching trophies since 1986. “

The troop is presently sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2064 in Maybrook, and makes a point to participate in Memorial Day Parades and Veteran’s Day ceremonies each year. At last year’s Veteran’s Day ceremony at Montgomery Town Hall, Barnett counseled his young musician with a response, should one of the Veterans thank them for attending.

“No sir,’ you tell them. ‘Thank YOU!’ “

The band is famous for its Armed Forces Medley, heard at patriotic observances, and a Christmas medley performed annual at the village tree-lighting ceremony. It begins each performance with a rendition of O Danny Boy, a tribute to band member Danny Meyer who was murdered on June 15, 1996.

“While our band is an integral part of our scout troop, we are a scout troop and in our 37 year history we’ve had 91 Eagle Scouts including our first female Eagle in 2021,” reports Barnett. “We are very proud to represent our Village of Maybrook, our Town of Montgomery and our state whenever we march or perform.”

The present Scoutmasters are Bill Giannico and Abby Williams,. Jim Barnett, the Troop and Band’s founder is the Band Director and Committee Chair.

Coldenham Fife & Drum Corps

The Coldenham Fife & Drum Corps was organized in 1966 under the sponsorship of the Coldenham Fire Company with Joe McVeight as their first director. The original membership was mostly children of the Coldenham firemen. The original uniform was basic, but fitting for the colonial period: red vest, trimmed with gold, white shirt, black pants and a tricorne hat.

Many of the fife instructors during the early years were from the Continental Fife & Drum Corps of Coldenham. In 1976, the corps changed its uniforms to a patriotic theme for the Bicentennial. The new uniform was a blue woodsman type garment trimmed in red with the white pants and the tricorne hat.

The Maybrook Troop 236 Scout Band marching on Memorial Day.

In the early 80s, the membership grew older. Joe McVeigh left the corps to form the Civil War troopers.

After a reorganization, Joe Keenan took over the reigns as director and fife instructor, while Dave Keenan took over as drum instructor. Over the next few years, the corps did many paid events and received a grant from IBM to purchase new uniforms again, this time with a more traditional revolutionary period theme. . The new, and still current, uniforms consist of a blue colonial coat, double breasted with red and gold trim and lots of buttons, traditional knickers, reversible blue/white vests, and new tricorne hats.

In the 90s, Dave Keenan took over as director and continued to work with the kids to bring the corps where it is today. In recent years, the corps has traveled many miles, as far as Lake Placid, NY and to the Deep River Ancient Muster in Connecticut.

Today's corps has 20 members, ranging in age from 9 to more than 60. They are led by director Donna VanDerMeulen and can be heard practicing on Friday evenings at the Coldenham Fire House. No prior musical experience is necessary for anyone interested in joining the corps

For more information on booking or membership, contact VanDerMeulen at dbbunny26@gmail.com.
